

So, the Great River must be an underground link between the earth's seas. The tides were with you and carried you through the earth's mantle and crust to the surface. There's land nearby. And you notice a faint glow on the horizon. Soon the sun will be rising, not the cold Black Sun of the Underground Kingdom, but your own warm, bright, life-giving sun!

The End

